DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kato (US6403927).

Kato discloses a vertical heat processing apparatus and method of controlling comprising a process chamber (3) to accommodate a plurality of substrates (W), a heating furnace (11) surrounding the process chamber (3), an electric heater (12) configured to heat the chamber from the outside (column 4, lines 37-41), an electric blower (18), a temperature sensor (14), a control section to control heater and blower in accordance with temperature sensor (column 5, line 66-column 6, line 25) wherein the control section conducts temperature control in chamber from an initial temperature to a target temperature such that power is fed to the heater to heat the chamber to a predetermined temperature and when chamber reaches predetermined temperature decreasing power to heater to a rate lower than first rate and supplying a cooling gas to forcibly cool the process chamber wherein the control section stops power to the blower when heating chamber and stops power to heater when cooling (column 6, line 26-64), and the chamber is quartz (column 4, line 43). While Kato does not disclose a temperature in the range of 100 to 500 degrees Celsius, Kato does disclose that his invention may be used in a low temperature furnace such as a CVD furnace (column 8, lines 37-38) which inherently would be in the 100-

500 degrees Celsius temperature range because of the nature of the process being performed and inherently would be below the temperature initially disclosed by Kato (column 4, lines 41-42).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-11, 13-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
